HCO BULLETIN OF JUNE 11, 1959
(Reissued, From London)

LOCATION OF TERMINALS ON HAS CO-AUDIT

The only process to be run on HAS Co-Audit now is Overt Withhold Straight Wire. The commands are "Recall something you have done to _____" and "Recall something you have withheld from _____", run alternately.

This is the only process to be used. Dynamic Straight Wire is now cancelled on the HAS Co-Audit, and also Know to Mystery Straight Wire.

The emphasis on this course is on present life terminals. These are sufficient to create a release. Once the student is a release he can go to a fully qualified auditor who will process him to Theta Clear.

The terminals to look for are contra-survival ones, not pro-survival ones. If pro-survival valences are run out the contr-survival valences become even more solid.

These are located by asking the pc questions, bringing in minus tone scale emotions, such as pity, blame, shame, regret. Also, find out who he has forgotten about. The terminals must contain physical pain or unconsciousness.

This should take the HAS instructor a couple of minutes to locate. If he has difficulty in finding a terminal, he should run the pc on himself.

This course gets excellent results because it is straightforward and simple. So stick to this life's terminals and you will get your releases.
