B.P.I.   HCO BULLETIN OF MAY 26, 1960

CALLING ALL AUDITORS ABOUT HELP

This week we can definitely say that the latest Rundown - Pre-sessioning on the Deadly Quartet and running the first button Help until it is flat, is having spectacular results. From every Org. come enthusiastic reports and the first actual pc results run entirely on Help came through from the HGC London this week. There, great gains were made without exception on eight preclears. Profile and IQ changes of real magnitude.

There will be another HCO Bulletin from Ron on this soon, but I'll just run through the salient points.

Two way comm easily with your pc. Discuss Help - Control - Comm and get his reality and understanding. Note needle reaction.   If he has NO reality on Help or firmly believes he can help no one nor be helped - run 'Concept Help'

'Get the idea of helping'
'Get the idea of not helping'.

If the pc is out of control you should be running CCH, so don't run SCS or 8C at this stage.

During discussion of Communication try to get the pc to spill his O/Ws, just to get them off his chest. This will be a big relief but do not run them.

By now the Interest factor should be up and you are ready to go into Model Session. Use Help O/W on an Auditor ARC break, or if this is too tough for the pc undercut with

'Recall trying to help me'

Do a Dynamic Assessment and pick a hot terminal very real to the pc and run Help O/W. If needle is very sticky begin with 2 way Help and five way bracket to free it up.

Exactly the same rules apply to running Help O/W as did for O/W and Resp. So if the pc runs out of answers on a specific terminal, change over to the general form of that terminal and continue. Keep havingness up to the ratio of at least half an hour to every one and a half hours of Help O/W.

Run every terminal contacted to a NUL needle. You have the definition of a NUL needle. Make sure it is one.

We look forward to hearing of your successes, please let us know. Anything you as an auditor or D of P have learned about Help would be appreciated and any problem you are having in handling it should be forwarded to Ron at once.
