HCO BULLETIN OF APRIL 17, AD13

R3 - M2
RE-DO GOALS FOUND ON THIS PATTERN
A COMPLETE GPM PATTERN
 (Replaces all former Line Plots).

This is the first actual Goals Problem Mass pattern released. All earlier published patterns were synthetic.

I went back 216 Trillion to obtain this pattern for a GPM and to find out if it was safe to try to run an early GPM in a human body. It is.

The pattern is probably completely correct but there may be a transposition or adjustment necessary, such as the way "No" is expressed - Not-non-absence etc.

By evidence to hand, all GPMs contain all these early and late endings. It is permissible (indeed impossible to do otherwise) for the pc to list with this pattern to hand and the auditor must use it to help the pc. No pc is ever going to confront the whole of a GPM early in processing.

RR markings refer to how goal reads on being called 3 times to pc. All RIs read with RR when called to pc once.

PATTERN OF A VERB GOAL

Give me your goal
 as a final accomplishment

POINTS OF INTEREST

The oppterminals gradually increase as the goal is lived, to become the goal. The terminals decrease as lived until goal is repugnant.

Each terminal and each oppterm contains a form of the goal. There are neither terminals nor oppterminals that contain entirely different words.

The lower terminals have no slightest variation in any bank.

The upper oppterminals contain no slightest variation from the pattern in any bank.

Only the middle ground of the GPM may vary but always has some form of the goal itself.

If you make an error in following this pattern or fail to get the right RI your pc's RR will get shorter and vanish on the next 3 or 4 RIs.

This is for a verb goal such as To Scream. It is also the same for a To Be goal form.

This will hold good for all goals and all GPMs.

Any corrections and patterns for other goal forms will be released as fast as I find them. I do not guarantee there are not more RIs in a GPM.

The following is the goal from which the above pattern was taken, given to assist further understanding.
