THE THREE IMPORTANT COMMUNICATION LINES

When you are sitting in an auditing session what are the 3 important communication lines and what is their order of importance?

1. The first is the pc's line to his bank. The it'sa maker line.
2. The second is the pc's line to the auditor. The it'sa line.
3. The third is the auditor's line to the pc. The what's-it line.

Now the definition, "Willing to talk to the auditor", is very easy to interpret as, "Talking to the auditor". So the auditor cuts the line the pc has to the bank in order to get the pc to talk, because "It's the it'sa line that blows the charge", he says.

So the auditor cuts the pc's communication line with his bank in order to bring about an it'sa line - and then he wonders why he gets no TA action and why the pc ARC breaks.

This out communication line is not perceivable to the naked eye. It's hidden because it's from the pc - a Thetan unseen by the auditor, to the pc's bank - unseen by the auditor.

The auditor is simply there to use the what's-it line in order to get the pc to confront his bank. The charge blows off it to the degree that it's confronted and this is represented by the it'sa line.

The it'sa line is a report on what has been as-ised, that gives it its flow.

The sequence of use of these lines in an auditing cycle is 3, 1, and then 2.

Where the auditor neglects this hidden line from the pc to the pc's bank, where he doesn't understand that hidden line and can't integrate it or do anything with it he is going to fail.
