"MOONLIGHTING"

Staff members of an org who also have other jobs outside the org are said to be MOONLIGHTING.

Day staff with an evening or weekend job or Foundation staff with a day job have been accused unjustly in the past of injuring an org.

An org only gets injured when its doors get closed and it ceases to promote and deliver good service.

If a whole staff of a Day Org decided to close the org all day and open it only in the evening "Moonlighting" would have destroyed the day org. This would be heavily frowned upon.

If a Foundation staff closed the Foundation to get evening work, it would be a highly non-survival act and injurious.

An org which is just starting up or which has been so unorg boarded and unhatted that it fell into such a slump that could not live on its pay, the staff would be remiss not to Moonlight while they built the org back up. Built up, org boarded and hatted the org could pay its staff adequately.

To forbid the practice of Moonlighting would be to force a staff member to blow in self defense.

INFLATION

As money inflates (purchases less) and as the cost of operating rise, and fees remain unchanged an org can get into a situation where it is inefficient and pays low salaries.

"Moonlighting on the government" would be quite permissible. With governments anxious to hand out welfare, in some depressed area it would be quite all right to go on the dole or relief and work as a church volunteer in the org.

The higher unemployment rises, the less money will buy, the more finance trouble there is.

Org staffs under such duress can even live as monasteries for food, shelter and pocket money and keep an org going.

SUBSIDY

At this writing the only subsidies available from governments is for those who kill people. The money the government should be spending to support our orgs goes to special interest groups like psychiatry who pocket it and deliver nothing.

Up the years this may change.

Until it does we have to keep our heads up financially.

That also applies to an org staff member. There is no reason he should lose his staff job because he also has to Moonlight to live.

A well run, well-recruited, well-org boarded, well-hatted, well-trained org delivering high quality training and auditing makes very adequate income and pays well. But it sometimes takes time to build up from a mismanaged slump to an Ideal Scene again.

There is no policy against MOONLIGHTING where it does not injure the org.
