COMPUTERS - DANGER OF RELYING ON

1. Lack human values.
2. They work on data fed them and that data not only can be corrupted but is in a large percentage false.

The computer cannot detect false or imperfect data save by the system of considering repeated reports correct. (All one has to do is feed a computer the same report in several versions and it "finds it correct.") There are various intelligence systems of evaluating data and all of them are extremely faulty.

The computer is no better than the organization that feeds it.
